

JOSEPH DI PASQUALE

URBAN BEINGS

The relational city and new paradigms of living with written contributions by

Ilde Kantzas, Federica Colzani, Elena Coda

preface by Carlo Masseroli

ILPOLIGRAFO

Contents

7	Preface Carlo Masseroli
13	Critical issues in the realm of... housing
17	Can architecture change behaviour?
20	How our housing desires have changed
25	The pandemic and urban suffering
29	The desire for a new kind of city and urban relational goods
34	Symptoms of change
37	Changing the paradigm
37	From the rationalist city to the behavioural city
38	From building density to 'relational density'
44	From the apartment to the 'adaptive domestic perimeter'
48	From the architect-demiurge to the architect interpreter of desires
49	What should we do? Signs of a great opportunity
53	Cities and psyches: the geometry of human relations
57	Ζώνον πολιτικόν, urban being Ilde Kantzas
61	Urban relational goods Federica Colzani
73	Femininity and spiritual proximity to the material world Elena Coda
79	Bibliographical references